Re: President's Council On Y2K Conversion: Y2K Youth Education Program

Date: September 22, 1999

On September 24, local newspapers will receive the Y2K Youth Education Newspaper in Education program, that was developed and presented by the President's Council on Year 2000 Conversion, the Newspaper Association of America, The National Newspaper Association and Use The News.

The State of Louisiana's Y2K Coordination Office, as part of its ongoing Y2K initiatives, is seeking your assistance with this important educational program that promotes Y2K awareness. The program contains professional teaching materials that will provide an opportunity for you to work with schools and the community at large in promoting Y2K awareness.

All the necessary supplies needed to facilitate this program will be provided to local papers at no cost. If your materials do not arrive by September 24, the materials can be downloaded from the President's Council's website at www.y2k.gov/youth/nie.

For more information, please contact our education and media liaison, Dr. Betty L. Sullivan of Use The News, at 415/641-0611 or via e-mail at Bettysnie@aol.com or visit the State of Louisiana's Y2K website at WWW.LAY2K.COM.
